

New Moving Rules Limits Underestimating Charges

Stringent new rules, limiting the amount moving companies may charge shippers of household goods and giving better protection to consumers, went into effect (Saturday) November 23, the California Public Utilities Commission announced.

The new regulations, designed to eliminate the practice of "underestimating," were approved by the PUC more than a year ago, but implementation had been delayed until the ruling was upheld by the State Supreme Court.

Affected are two types of residential household goods moves on which written estimates may be given by a moving company, the PUC explained.

The first is for what is normally referred to as a "local" move, one of less than 50 miles. On this type of move, charges are normally figured in dollars and cents per hour for the actual time spent loading and unloading and double the driving time between the old and new residence. Additional charges are made for packing, packing materials, unpacking, etc.

On "distance" moves, or those shipments of over 50 miles, a different type of charge applies. These charges are based in dollars and cents for each 100 pounds transported. The basic charge includes ordinary pickup and delivery and transportation between the old and new residences. Additional charges are made for packing, unpacking, packaging materials, lengthy hand carries or numerous steps at origin and destination.

Starting November 23, when a moving company has given a written estimate and transports a "local" move shipment at hourly rates, the company may charge only the amount of the original estimate plus an allowable estimating overage of 10 percent of the total estimate of $15, whichever is more. On a "distance" shipment, the mover may charge only the amount of the estimate plus an extra 2.5 percent of the total estimate or $15.

In either instance, the PUC said, the customer must also pay for any additional articles or services such as packing or unpacking, extra helpers, or other services which the customer desires the mover to perform, but had not requested when the original estimate was given.

Moving companies are not required to give estimates, the PUC said. If they do, they must be in writing. Oral estimates are prohibited, either over the telephone or in person. They may not give oral approximations or averages or in any way give the customer any non-written indication of what the final price may be, the PUC emphasized.

The new regulations provide that the mover must sign the estimate; the customer does not. In addition, a written estimate is binding on the mover who gives it. A moving company may not adopt another company's estimate.

If a moving company discovers that its estimator has given a low estimate, it may not change the estimate.

A householder must show an estimator all of the articles to be shipped and must make known all of the services to be performed. Every article to be shipped and every article not to be shipped must be listed by an estimator on a "Basis For Carrier's Probable Cost of Services" and "Table of Measurements" document. A customer should cooperate in filling in the form and must sign the "Basis" document.

The PUC pointed out that if a customer adds articles to the shipment, does not dispose of certain furnishings indicated originally as not being part of the shipment, or wants the mover to perform additional services, the mover will charge for the additional articles or services. Under such circumstances, the customer or his agent and a moving company representative must sign an "Addendum Order for Services" document. This document must list the additional articles, to be transported and any new services to be performed.

The new rules apply to any shipment completed on and after November 23, 1974, even though the written estimate was given prior to that date.

Carriers may grant credit if arranged for in advance. When this is not done, moving companies may legally demand that charges be paid at the time of delivery by Continued On Page 3

Ford Fails To Learn Basic Lessons

Senator Alan Cranston (D., Calif.) said recently that President Ford's veto of new amendments to strengthen the Freedom of Information Act "revealed a second blind-spot in his failure to learn the basic lessons of Watergate."

In remarks prepared for Senate floor delivery, Cranston, a former newsman, said he has been asked by Senator Edward Kennedy (D., Mass.), who will floor manage a Senate effort to override the veto on Thursday or Friday, "to help organize opposition to the President's ill-advised action." A House override effort is scheduled for Wednesday.

Cranston is a leading Senate advocate of First Amendment freedoms and authored the free flow of information bill to protect news sources against compulsory disclosure.

"President Ford seemed to have missed the point of the Watergate trials when he pardoned former President Nixon before the legal process was allowed to run its full course," Cranston said.

"That was an unpardonable pardon. Our laws must apply equally to each and all of us, including Presidents and former Presidents."

President Ford's veto of the Freedom of Information Act amendments, Cranston said, "is further evidence that he hasn't grasped still another lesson of Watergate--the dangers of undue secrecy in government."

"The Watergate disclosures showed how public officials and government bureaucrats try to cover up mistakes, misjudgments and even illegal acts under the cloak of 'national security,'" Cranston said.

"Those people were more interested in job security than in national security," he said. "They were more concerned about saving their own necks than about safe-guarding the nation."

Cranston said the Ford veto "threatens to perpetuate the Nixon style of letting government bureaucrats manipulate the public by deceiving the press."

He also pointed to recent efforts by Administration officials--especially those at the Pentagon, the State Department, the Treasury and the Office of Management and Budget--to clamp down on so-called "premature" information to the press.

The Freedom of Information Act amendments, which Congress passed earlier this year with Cranston's support, are designed to broaden public access to government documents, Cranston said.

"We want to speed up the process of getting the government to respond to legitimate requests for information by members of the public and the press," he said.

Cranston pointed out that under present procedures it took 13 months before the Tax Reform Research Group was able to get released to the public earlier this week 41 documents showing how the Internal Revenue Service's Special Services Staff investigated dissident groups. The amendments also provide for judicial review of disputes over what information could be made public.

"This is in keeping with the American tradition of having disagreements settled by a third party--the courts," Cranston said.

"I supported the new legislation because I believe in the freest possible flow of information to the people about what their government is doing, and why," Cranston said. "The people must have access to the truth if they are to govern themselves intelligently and to prevent

Tunney Proposes Changes In Crude Oil Policies

Senator John V. Tunney (D. Calif.) recently protested proposed changes in Federal crude oil policies which he said would "work a serious hardship on independent refiners and force them, in effect, to subsidize major oil companies."

Tunney said in a letter to Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton that the changes in the Federal Energy Administration's crude oil equalization plan would have a major adverse impact on California independents.

FEA's plan to base crude oil entitlements on refinery runs, rather than refinery capacity, would be reversing previous policy, Tunney said.

"As you know, the majors control access to supplies of crude. Thus, the independents will be forced to remain at their current low operating levels while the majors will reap the benefits of the program, increasing their operating rates and enjoying an increased competitive advantage," Tunney wrote.

"I fail to understand why such a policy reversal is being contemplated, and I can only assume that pressure from the major oil companies has been of more concern than the plight of small independent refiners."

"The second issue of concern in California is the decision to require some small refiners with a high level of oil supplies to purchase entitlements under the new program. This will substantially raise the operating costs of the refineries involved and would in effect result in some small refiners subsidizing the majors, a situation I consider ludicrous."

"The small refiners who will be affected by this regulation have historically operated on substantial amounts of domestic crude oil, including old oil. These refiners are generally located inland and are unable to obtain foreign crude oil because of the lack of common carrier pipelines in California."

"This proposed regulation will have a heavy impact because a number of companies, due to their location and the type of facilities they operate, are largely dependent upon crude oil from state and local governments in California as well as from nearby oil fields."

"I strongly support the recommendation offered by the Independent Refiners Association of California that refinery capacity be reinstated as the basis for the entitlement plan. The plant capacities of both the independents and the majors are carefully documented and are currently being used in Department of Interior calculations. I do not feel this system should be changed."

40-Day Battle With Drunk Drivers Due

The California Highway Patrol figuratively laces on enforcement boxing gloves this week for the annual 40-day battle with drunk drivers.

An increase in drinking drivers "unfortunately characterizes the Thanksgiving-through-New Year's holiday period and enforcement necessarily moves up several notches," CHP Commissioner Dan Lanza said.

Lanza predicted "25,000 drunk driver arrests during November and December. During the first 10 months of 1974 we arrested 103,874 drunks, about 10,000 per month. We'll increase that as much as 25 percent during this critical period."

CHP drunk driving arrests totaled just under 120,000 in 1973, an all-time high which should be exceeded by eight or ten thousand this year.

Municipal police emphasis goes up correspondingly during the holiday period. "City officers as a group typically match or slightly exceed CHP totals, so the drinking driver can expect real pressure this year."

The Patrol's long-time emphasis on drinking driver enforcement "could be catching up with the problem," Lanza said. "Ten-month statistics for 1974 show a 9.9 percent year-to-year drop in the number of intoxicated drivers listed as the primary cause of accidents. Maybe the message is beginning to get through."

Lanza said the "drinking drivers we catch really are the lucky ones. They'll spend a few hours in jail sobering up, be fined $300 or more, perhaps lose their license for awhile, and probably miss a day's pay while they're in court. But eventually they will be driving again."

"The ones we don't get to in time are the unlucky people. They go to the hospital or the morgue. Of course there is an easy way to avoid either jail or hospital, but some drivers never seem to understand that."

Lanza credited stronger legal provisions for "much of the improvement in the process which brings drunk drivers to account." The implied consent law, which deems the driver to have given his consent to undergo a chemical test for blood alcohol, has assisted enforcement--particularly with addition of the measure which says the driver will lose his license if he refuses a test.

The presumptive limit law, which says a blood alcohol level of .10 percent or above constitutes a legal presumption that the driver is under the influence, "has clarified the defendant's status when he gets to court, assisting judicial disposition," Lanza said.

This Week's Spotlight Shines On Joanna Lee

This week the spotlight shines on Joanna Lee. She is the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Charles Lee of 1962 Mariposa Street. Joanna is a native of Seaside and comes from a family of five. She is a former student of Ord Terrace Elementary School.

Joanna thoroughly enjoys school and list Physical Education, French, Humanities and Band as her favorite subjects. In her spare time she enjoys skating, bike riding, bowling, baseball and basketball.

She is president of the French Club and a member of The King Scholars Chapter of the National Junior Honor Society. When asked her reaction to being elected second vice-president of King's Student Council, Joanna replied, "I was very excited about winning. I would like to help in any way I can to keep King on top as one of the best junior high schools in the district." Joanna is an eighth grader and has maintained a 4.00 grade average. Her future plans consist of getting a college education and becoming a teacher.

Gov. Reagan Presents Medal To Gral. Ames

The Distinguished Service Medal - the highest-ranking decoration for service in the armed forces - was presented to Major General Glenn C. Ames, Commanding General of the California National Guard in ceremonies held in the Governor's Office recently.

Governor Ronald Reagan, representing President Ford, personally decorated General Ames following the reading of a citation which said, in part: "(General Ames) tenure has been marked by manifold improvements in the standards, capabilities and elan of the entire California National Guard..." The citation went on to note that in General Ames eight years as head of the California State Military Department, substantial upgrading in the quality of training and in the combat readiness of all California Guard units were effected.

The Governor spoke with both pride and admiration for General Ames and the policies and vitality that the general channeled to the California National Guard's more than 26,000 members. He noted with great satisfaction that elements of the State's Guard responded to the extremely sensitive task of coping with civil disorders in support of law enforcement agencies on some 27 occasions without a single instance of over-reaction.

The Distinguished Service Medal (DSM) is awarded by the President of the United States to Military personnel for exceptionally meritorious service in positions of great responsibility. Since its inception in July of 1918, it has been awarded most judiciously. General Ames is one of the few Army National Guardsmen nationwide to be honored with the DSM.

The brief ceremonies were attended by General Ames' wife Maxine, and a host of military colleagues headed by Lieutenant General Elvy B. Roberts, Commander of the Sixth United States Army, and Major General A. E. Milloy, Commander of Army Readiness Region IX both from the Presidio of San Francisco.

Meet Anne Louise Johnson, young trumpeter from Monterey Peninsula College, who is one of the promising young stars of today.

Anne has been playing the trumpet for over nine years. She hails from Concord, and comes from a family who is musically inclined. Her father plays trombone, her mother sings. She has a twin sister that plays trombone.

Her father joined the Peace Corps and Anne traveled with him to Afghanistan, interrupting her musical career for a period of two years. Upon returning to the states she resumed her career.

She met Ace Hill, who came to MPC and played jazz at a history class, she became enamored with his piano, and formulated a friendship. Ace has encouraged her to pursue this career.

Her ambition is to join a big band and continue her career, in the meantime she is pursuing her school career.

She is also a percussionist. She plans a study in composing and desires to do some arranging.

The people who have heard her readily agree that she will go very far.

Four CDEC Soldiers Honored

USADCE, Ft. Ord, Calif. (Nov. 29, 1974) - Four soldiers serving with the US Army Combat Developments Experimentation Command (CDEC) were honored today at a special awards ceremony.

Staff Sergeant Howard E. Washington was presented with the Silver Star Medal, the nation's third highest award for valor. The accompanying citation notes that Washington, while serving in the Republic of Vietnam, assumed command when his platoon leader was wounded. Under his leadership the group established a perimeter and took evasive action until they could be rescued.

Master Sergeant Robert E. Gustin received The Soldier's Medal, the Army's highest award for peacetime heroism. Gustin was cited for extraordinary action in July when he rescued a young swimmer who was struggling and calling for help in Ft. Ord's east garrison fishing pond.

Lieutenant Colonel John G. Collar was presented with the Legion Merit. The award, which recognizes exceptionally meritorious conduct in the performance of outstanding services, notes Collar's distinguished performance of duty throughout his more than 20 years with the Army. Collar retired from the Army today and will reside in Monterey.

Master Sergeant William Kroeger received the Meritorious Service Medal which is given for outstanding achievement or service. The award notes Kroeger's exemplary performance of duty during the past three years as Chief Supply Sergeant for CDEC's Experimentation Group. Kroeger retired from the Army today and will live in Seaside.

The awards were presented by Brigadier General Donald F. Packard, CDEC Commander.

"Los Pastores" To Be Performed At MPC

"Los Pastores," a Spanish Christmas pageant from the 1850's, will be presented in the Monterey Peninsula College Amphitheatre on Sunday, Dec. 15 at 2 p.m. and again at 4 p.m.

"Los Pastores" includes Spanish dialogue in music, song and dance, and a children's choir. It is the traditional story of The Three Wise Men Mary, Joseph, and the Christ child.

Miguel Salazar, production director, said the version presented has been adapted from the 'pageant play' found in and around the old mission town of Monterey and the Toyol Presidio Chapel in the mid-1800's.

Salazar said the production employs a company of some 80 people including numerous students from colleges and schools in the Monterey Bay Area. It is being co-sponsored by MPC Community Services and the Spanish Department.

Admission is free, but donations will be accepted to establish a linguistic and performing arts scholarship at MPC to be titled the Mayo Hayes O'Donnell Scholarship in honor of Monterey's beloved California historian.

ASMPAC Arts & Crafts Fair With Live Music

Pottery, jewelry, macrame, toys, woodcraft, iron works and many other excellent Christmas gift items, along with big-band music will be featured in a Christmas "Arts and Crafts Fair," sponsored by the Associated Students of Monterey Peninsula College on Saturday and Sunday, Dec. 14-15 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Monterey Customs House Plaza.

The "Del Monte Express," a local band, will be sponsored by the City of Monterey, Parks and Recreation Department and the Monterey Musicians Association local 616 and is being founded by the Music Performance Trust Fund.

Ed Norris, Assistant Dean of Student Personnel, said in case of rain, the Fair will take place in the MPC Student Center.

The Arts and Crafts Fair is a benefit for the ASMPAC, a nonprofit organization, which assists with such campus programs as scholarships, the job placement, college center programs, the child care center and others.

State Alerts Employees On CAL-OSHA Recordkeeping Rules

About 120,000 private employers in California will receive this week the State's official guidelines and forms for recording and reporting job related injuries and illnesses.

Margaret R. O'Grady, Chief of Labor Statistics and Research in the State Department of Industrial Relations said that the instructions and forms now being mailed are for use beginning January 1, 1975.

The State is responsible for enforcing requirements for recordkeeping and reporting, under the California Occupational Safety and Health Act (CAL-OSHA). Employers of eight or more persons who fail to maintain records on, or to report, job related injuries or illnesses may be subject to fines.

Employers of eight or more persons account for firms with nearly 90 percent of the State's 8.4 million civilian workers.

Recordkeeping under CAL-OSHA is an important tool in gauging effectiveness of programs to prevent job related injuries and illnesses, according to Mrs. O'Grady.

Employers who need additional copies of the booklets and the forms -- CAL-OSHA Form 100, the log of occupational injuries and illnesses; and CAL-OSHA Form 102, the annual summary of occupational injuries and illnesses -- can obtain them by writing the State Division of Labor Statistics and Research, P.O. Box 603, San Francisco, CA 94101.

Northern California employers seeking information or forms may telephone requests to (415) 557-1468.

In Southern California, employers should telephone (213) 388-2257.

Talcott Votes To Over-Ride Ford Veto On Veteran's Benefits

Washington, D.C. Dec. 3, 1974...U.S. Congressman Burt L. Talcott, (12th District-Salinas), today was joined by 393 other United States Representatives in successfully voting to over-ride President Ford's veto of a bill to increase veteran's educational benefits.

Speaking from his Capitol Hill office Talcott said, "One of the finest American traditions is that we remember and take care of the needs of those who bear the burden of the defense of our country. The wide range of veterans benefits available are not something we give the veteran, they are something which he has earned."

Talcott, a senior member of the important House Appropriations Committee, and the ranking member of the subcommittee which oversees the Veterans Administration budget, went on to say, "Millions of our young veterans today are in the process of continuing their educations which were interrupted by their service in the defense of our Nation."

Sugar Prices May Aid Dental Health

Soaring sugar prices, while painful to the pocketbook, may be a blessing in disguise, California's health director said today.

Dr. William E. Mayer said "the average American mouth is a disaster area," and he blamed excessive use of sugar for many dental diseases.

"One way to reduce the number of rotting teeth and diseased gums is to cut down on sugar or foods that contain sugar," he said.

"Check food packages for the list of ingredients, and remember they are listed by volume. When sugar is first, it means the food contains more of the sweet stuff than any other substance."

Mayer said volume is important in another way. A teaspoonful of sugar in tea or coffee is not as harmful as the tablespoonful in a soft drink or a candy bar, he said.

"Even if sugar prices return to normal," Mayer said, "we can save money and teeth by finding other ways to satisfy our sweet tooth."

"Fresh fruit and vegetables, nuts and other low-sugar foods may never replace soda pop and ice cream, but we should give them a try."

Limiting sugar intake is only one part of a good dental program, according to the health official. Proper daily use of a toothbrush and dental floss, and regular visits to a dentist, are important too, Mayer said.

Mrs. Verna Sloan, Equal Opportunity Specialist at Fort Ord, attended a Department of Army sponsored three-day seminar-workshop at the Hilton Inn in El Paso, Texas on the 20th, 21st, and 22nd of November. The conference was hosted by White Sands Missile Range, New Mexico.

The basic theme of the seminar was "Equal Employment Opportunity Program Implementation." The two major aspects addressed were the Federal Women's Program and the Spanish Speaking Program.

Resource persons for the seminar were Mr. Joseph Bennett, Director of Equal Employment Opportunity for Department of Army, Washington, D.C., Mr. Antonio Mendoza, Equal Employment Opportunity Officer, White Sands Missile Range, Mr. Many Nieves, Spanish Speaking Coordinator for Department of Army, Washington, D.C., Mrs. Frances Williams, Federal Women's Program Coordinator, WSMR, who is also a member of the governor's Commission on the Status of Women for the State of New

Pacific Island American Day

Pacific Island American Day will be celebrated on December 10, at 1:00 P.M., at Marina Vista Elementary School, Monterey Peninsula Unified School District. Children will present hula and stick dances in a general assembly program and all students are urged to wear costumes.

The program is the first in a series of six "International Days" during which students from various ethnic groups will present programs which may include songs, dances, history, food and sports.

Marina Vista has a forty per cent non-white ethnic balance. The purpose of special days of recognition is to help the students and staff recognize other cultural heritages and their contributions to American life, and learn to appreciate, understand and respect those from other cultures.

Chairpersons for the International Days are Mrs. Drunell Rowe and Mr. Leon Turner. Others assisting include teachers, former students who attended Marina Vista, and many parents.

Ted Sawyer Returns In MPC'S Gourmet Cooking Workshop

Ted Sawyer, night chef and caterer at Fort Ord's Non-Commissioned Officer's Club, will be the guest chef in Monterey Peninsula College's workshop series, "Gourmet Cooking" on Saturday, Dec. 14 at 4 p.m. in MPC's Lecture Forum 101.

Sawyer will guide participants through the fine points of preparing hors d'oeuvres in this segment of the series.

The series is being sponsored by the MPC Honor Society and lecture demonstrations will be scheduled through June except on holiday weekends, according to Roger Fremier, society advisor.

Fremier said a different chef will host the workshops each week and demonstrate the preparation of their most prized dish. Recipes will be distributed to the workshop participants a week in advance of the actual preparation workshop. There is no admission or registration fee for this series.

For more information, call Fremier at 649-1150, ext. 232.

Effective December 23, Crocker will pay 7½% annual interest on deposits of $1,000 or more if you leave it with us for 6 years.

Of course, you can always withdraw your money on non-negotiable certificates before the 6 years are up if you want to. But federal banking regulations require substantial penalties for certain early withdrawals. Negotiable certificates must be left for the full 6 years.

Still, a bank-guaranteed 7½% return for the next 6 years, plus FDIC Insurance up to $40,000, is a pretty good deal these days. So, if you want to save for the future, do it with us.

We can make it pay off.

CITY OF SEASIDE NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed proposals or bids will be accepted at the City Clerk's Office, Seaside City Hall, to be publicly opened, examined, and declared on Tuesday, January 14, 1975, at the hour of 2:00 p.m. in the Council Chambers of Seaside City Hall, 440 Harcourt Avenue, Seaside, California, for furnishing of all labor, materials, transportation and services in the performance of all work for the construction of the water utility improvements entitled:

WATER WELL NO. 3
Major items of work consist of constructing or installing a concrete masonry control building, concrete masonry planters, a reinforced concrete well pit, six-inch steel pipe water mains, six-inch A.C. pipe water mains, gate valves and other plumbing equipment, grading, roofing, electrical, and other appurtenant work.

Said proposals or bids must be enclosed in sealed envelopes addressed to "City of Seaside, 440 Harcourt Avenue, Seaside, California 93955," and clearly labeled "Proposal for Water Well No. 3." Payments for said work to be done by the Contractor shall be made by said City to the Contractor on itemized estimates duly certified and approved by the City Engineer and the City Council, based on labor and materials performed and furnished by the Contractor and incorporated into said work during the preceding month, but said City shall retain ten percent (10 per cent) of the amount of each of such estimates, and the accumulation of said amounts so retained from said progressive payments will be paid to said Contractor thirty-five (35) days after the completion and acceptance of said work by said City Engineer and said City Council.

All proposals or bids shall be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check payable to the order of the City of Seaside, amounting to ten percent (10 per cent) of the bid, or by a bond in said amount payable to the City of Seaside, signed by the bidder and an admitted surety insurer. Said check shall be forfeited, or said bond shall become payable to the City of Seaside in case the bidder depositing same does not, within ten days after written notice that the contract has been awarded to him, enter into a contract with the City.
Notice is hereby given that the Seaside City Council has adopted a Resolution determining the general prevailing rate of per diem wages in the locality in which public work herein provided is to be done for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the contract; a copy of the wage scale determinations is on file with the City.

Each bid shall be in accordance with the plans, specifications and other contract documents now on file in the office of the City Engineer, and copies may be obtained from the City Engineer in said office at City Hall upon payment of fifteen dollars ($15.00) per set, all of which amount will be refunded upon return of the set in good condition within fifteen (15) days of the bid opening date.

The City of Seaside reserves the privilege of rejecting any and all bids or to waive any irregularities or informalities in said bid or in the bidding.

No bidder may withdraw his bid for a period of thirty (30) days after the date set for the opening thereof.

Pupils in California Scored Above The National Average In Reading

Pupils in California's 2nd and 3rd grades scored above the national average in reading last year, but the state's 6th and 12th graders performed below the national average in all subjects included in the statewide testing program.

Alexander I. Law, chief of the State Department of Education's Office of Program Evaluation and Research, told the State Board of Education recently that the 1973-74 test results disclosed that California's 2nd graders performed 3 percentile points better in reading than the national norm.

The average reading test score for the third grade was 2 percentile points higher than the national average.

The new test results, which involved 1.5 million pupils, also revealed a slight performance decline from the 1972-73 school year by 6th graders and high school seniors in reading, writing and spelling. However, Law said, "there is evidence that the downward trend in the 6th grade has been halted."

Other highlights of the test results:

-- High school seniors scored 16 percentile points below the

The Percent Of The Total Veterans

"Ten percent of the total Veterans' Administration expenditures for Fiscal Year 1974 went to the State of California with a large portion of this share coming into our area," reported Congressman Burt L. Talcott today in Washington.

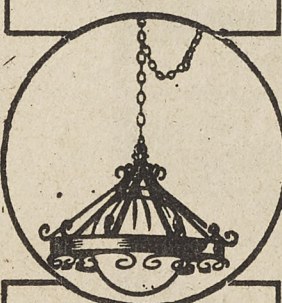

V.A. Administrator, Richard Roudebush, reported to Talcott that California received $1.5 billion of the V.A.'s $14.2 billion outlay in FY '74 for facilities operations and benefits to veterans and dependents. The California veteran received $548 million in compensation and pension pay as well as $479 million for education.

Congressman Talcott said that, "The California veteran is grateful for this expenditure distinction which assists the veteran and his family readjust to civilian pursuits. I am pleased that so many veterans in our area are taking advantage of the benefits programs to improve themselves and their earning capacities."

"My principle objective now is to enact a GI benefits bill for the Vietnam era veteran which is presently stymied in the legislative mill. This bill must be enacted soon even to the extent of overriding a Presidential veto."

national average in writing and language skills; 6th graders were 13 percentile points below the national average in the same skill area.

-- The average score in reading of high school seniors was 3 percentile points below the national average; 6th graders were 6 percentile points below the national norm in reading.

-- the average score of high school seniors in mathematics was 2 percentile points below the national average, the same as 1972-73; 6th graders were 12 percentile points below the national math average, no change from the year before.

-- High school seniors scored 3 percentile points below the national average in spelling; 6th graders were 8 percentile points below the national norm in spelling.

"The greatest weakness appears to be in the area of language and writing," Law said. He noted that both the 6th graders and the 12th graders scored 2 percentile points lower than 1972-73.

Because of the size and heterogeneity of California's population, the high average score for the state in the 2nd and 3rd grade is "remarkable," Law said. "The emphasis on improving the instructional program in the lower grades in the past four or five years is paying off," he added. "Similar emphasis will be placed on the higher grades during the next two to four years as a result of the efforts of the Reform of Intermediate and Secondary Education (RISE) program launched last July by Wilson Riles, state superintendent of public instruction." A special RISE commission is at work now developing a program to overhaul the state's junior and senior high schools.

Law said the test results indicate that:

-- Pupils who had attended preschools scored higher than those who did not.

--pupils in medium-sized schools scored higher than pupils in small and large schools.

-- Pupils who attend

suburban schools scored higher than pupils in both rural and urban schools.

Pupils whose parents were employed in professional fields scored higher than pupils whose parents were employed in skilled or semi-skilled occupations.

Law said no other state conducts such a comprehensive testing program. California is the only state that tests five grades annually, he added.

The test results include a breakdown by school districts. Law said. Each district has received its average scores in each subject area tested, and the results are compared with state and national norms. In addition, an innovative index added last year provides each district with a comparison of how it is performing in relation to districts with similar pupil populations.
